POLISH PRESS DIGESTS (212 pp; Polish;

25X1A

This document gives brief extracts on a variety of well-selected topics (political, sociological, and economic) from the press in Foland. The press coverage is fairly broad and representative. Occasionally, a periodical like Nowe Drogi is represented. The author, probably a Polish emigre in Germany, adds intelligent, sometimes penetrating, comments of his own. For example, he calls attention to a Trytuna Ludu reprint of Hilary Minc's articles in Pravda in which Minc developed the theme of comperation between the USSR and the peopless democracies and commented at some length on jointly owned enterprises. The author believes this may be an attempt to prepare public opinion for the creation of joint Polish-Soviet enterprises in Poland.
